*A Greeting from the President
of the Northern Counties Chess Union*

As the British Chess Federation's Annual Congress comes round once again the air is charged with the excitement of prospective chess battles and the pleasureable anticipation of meeting old friends and making new acquaintances.

The popularity of the game in Britain and the attraction of this major event in the Federation's chess calendar have never been greater. In the fifteen years since the Congress was last held in Blackpool the total entry of competitors has more than doubled. In this connection it is particularly gratifying to note the increasing interest and participation of the ladies and the girls. This happy state of affairs must primarily be ascribed to the enthusiasm of Members, but also is a reflection of the administrative efficiency of the Federation's Congress Committee, and the unsparing service provided by local officials. On this occasion, as good fortune has it, the Chairman of the Congress Committee is also President of the Lancashire Chess Association.

On behalf of the Northern Counties Chess Union I am delighted to extend to all competitors, officials, members of the press, and spectators including the general public a traditionally hearty welcome to the 58th Annual Congress. In wishing each and every player the best of luck, may I express the hope that the exhilarating festive atmosphere of Blackpool will confer brilliance at the board and cherished remembrances of the social occasion. This show-piece of our chess life, in a celebrated show setting, demands that you give of your personal best endeavours.

JAMES RUSHTON.

*A Welcome from the President
of the
Lancashire Chess Association*

One of the pleasing features of the B.C.F. Congress is the way various counties of England and Wales act as hosts. Players talk with affection of Oxford '67 or York '59 in the same manner as wine connoisseurs and perhaps it is timely to recall that Blackpool '56 was a vintage year. C. H. O'D. Alexander won with a record score of $9\frac{1}{2}$ points closely followed by F. Parr with 9 points. The national press followed this struggle with increasing enthusiasm as the fortnight progressed. Consequently it is with happy memories that the Lancashire Chess Association welcome the B.C.F. Congress to Blackpool and hope that this congress is equally successful.

Regarding the Palatine School, I think you will find the playing conditions and other amenities up to the usual high standard. It is close enough to the sea to benefit from the famous "Blackpool air." Yet the distance is sufficient to prevent itinerant holiday-makers from pressing their noses against the windows and wondering if we are playing chess or draughts! My only slight regret is that the school is some distance away from the parks and lakes. However I hope you will endeavour to see some of these since they are features of Blackpool which are not always appreciated.

Finally I would like to give a special welcome to junior players. The Liverpool Junior Congress attracts over 1200 players and the organisers are proud of the friendly and yet competitive spirit which pervades the Congress. The only difference with the B.C.F. Congress is that the friendships tend to be renewed at twelve months' intervals. But friends do not change, and they often continue to play the same (bad ?) openings too!

May I wish you all every success.

C. G. HILTON.
